Loewen Announces New Acquisition

La Loma Windows & Doors added to Loewen portfolio of products

Loewen, the window and door manufacturing enterprise based in Steinbach, Manitoba has entered into an agreement to acquire the business of La Loma Windows & Doors, based in Tucson, Arizona. "The La Loma acquisition will be a complementary addition to our current portfolio of Loewen products manufactured in Steinbach," President and Chief Executive Officer Al Babiuk said. "We will be maintaining the operations in Tucson, with the very skilled and dedicated staff there."

Founded over 100 years ago, Loewen is known for custom wood and aluminium clad wood windows and doors for the premium residential and light-commercial housing markets in Canada, the United States, the Caribbean, and Mexico. Loewen's fenestration products are distributed through a network of corporate stores and independent dealers who work with architects, designers, custom builders and homeowners to develop customized solutions for their unique building projects.

Clyde Loewen, Senior Vice-President of Product and Marketing said. "This acquisition will expand our offering of unique, custom architectural solutions for the premium segment of the window and door market."

La Loma (founded in 2004) is a manufacturer of highly customized wood and steel window and door products, known for their distinctive craftsmanship and unique traditional and contemporary styles.
